Eliza Novák-Galántai

Eliza is a language teacher who brings energy, curiosity, and warmth into every classroom. She currently teaches at the American International School of Budapest, helping bilingual students strengthen their English skills through creative and interactive lessons. Eliza holds a Master's degree in Portuguese language, literature, and culture from Eötvös Loránd University and has also studied at the University of Lisbon. She's worked in bilingual schools in Spain, taught private students from kids to retirees, and even gained diplomatic experience through internships at the Hungarian Embassy in Lisbon and the Ministry of Foreign Affairs. Fluent in English, Portuguese, and Spanish, Eliza loves connecting with people from different cultures and believes language learning should always be lively, personal, and fun.
